In Memory of
Marshall W. Hixson
1924-1969

God's finger touch'd him, and he slept.
—Tennyson

Although Mr. Hixson is gone, his influence still remains. His teaching abilities are remembered and sorely missed. His contributions to the school went beyond ordinary classroom teaching. The students he guided still acknowledge his wisdom; the students he disciplined still acknowledge his fairness. Yes, we remember Mr. Hixson, and this yearbook is in his memory.

People . . .

That's What It's All About—

Serious People,

and Light-Hearted Ones

People Feeling the Joy of Victory

and the Agony of Defeat

People Who Are Individuals,

and Those Who Function As a Team

Yes, We Are
All These People, and
That Is What It's All About.

Senior Class of '70 Largest Ever

May 31, 1970. The largest senior class in the history of Perry High School will graduate on that date. We have come a long way.

At the end of this year we can look back on our lives thus far and recall instances, some happy, some sad, yet all now nostalgic. Many of us can remember going to the zoo in the first grade and the party we had to celebrate our "graduation" into junior high. We thought we'd never get over the pain of waltzing with a partner of the opposite sex in gym class.

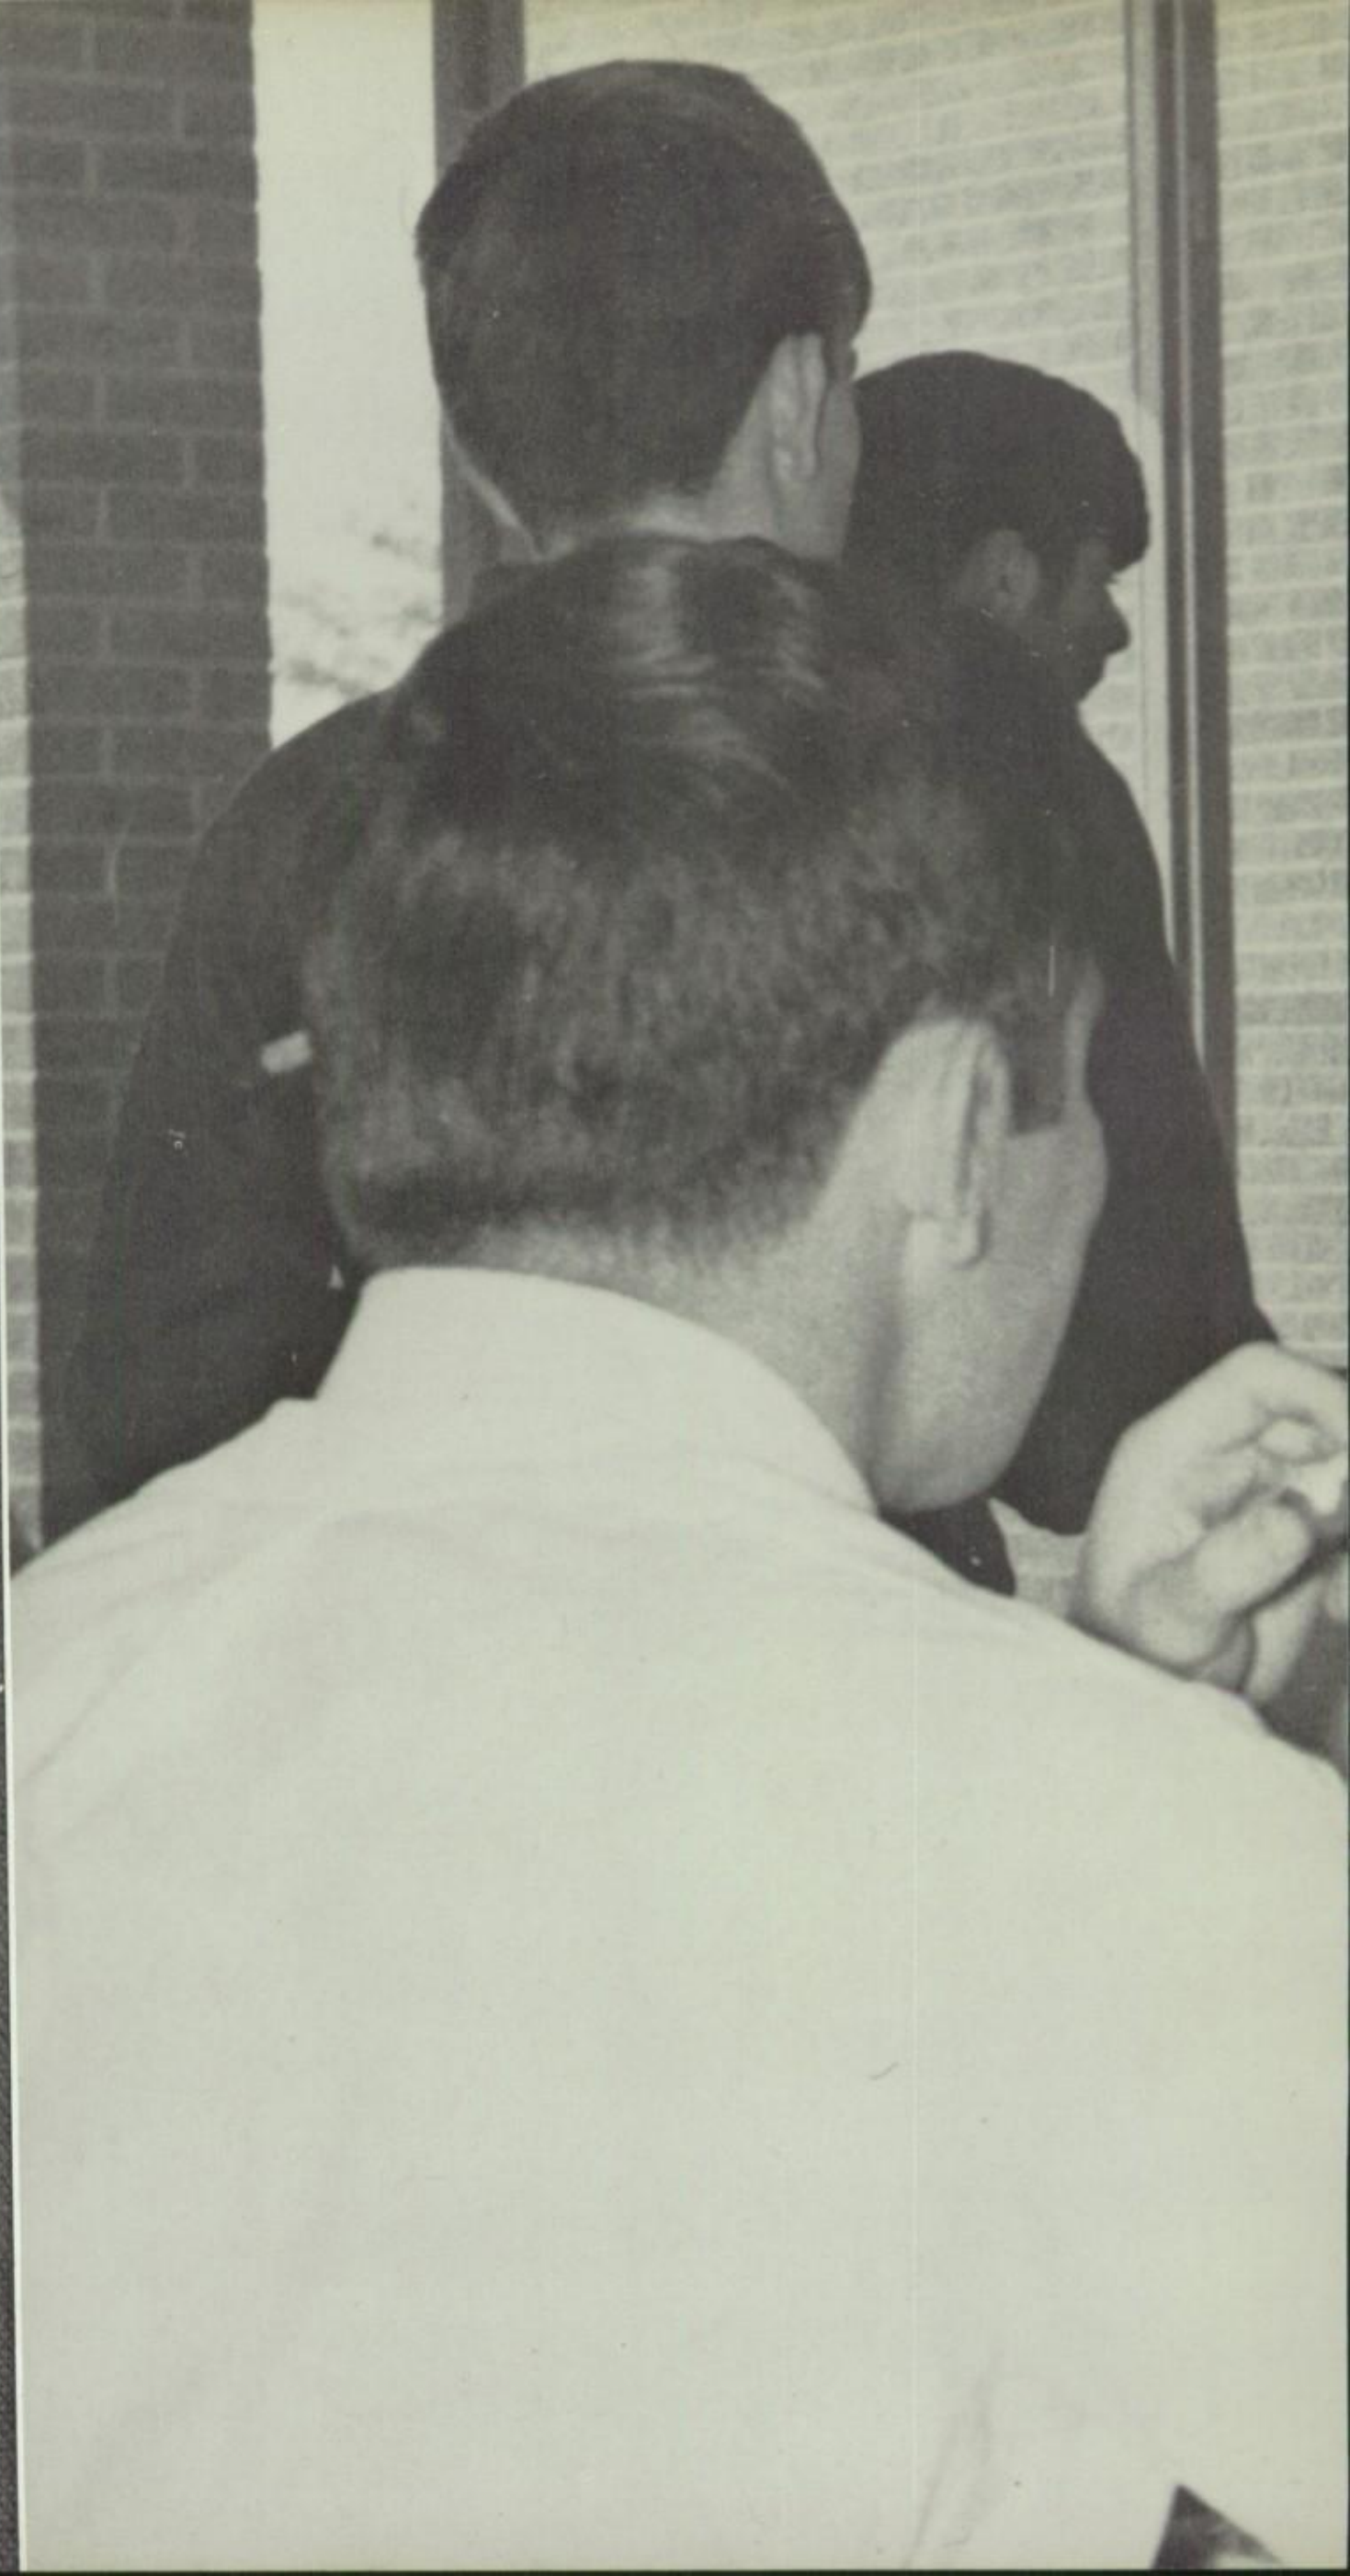

As the years passed, however, we matured into a class of novel ideas and unprecedented class spirit. Competition and rivalry, however intense, has always been in the best sense friendly.

Through our joys and disappointments we have learned some valuable lessons about life and human nature. Now, we approach the end of our twelve year struggle only to meet new challenges. For some, there will be college, for some, jobs, and for others, marriage and the military. Our success in whatever field we may choose will depend largely upon our ability to apply the knowledge we gained during our years at Perry.

Runs Fast Season

Coach Kobus

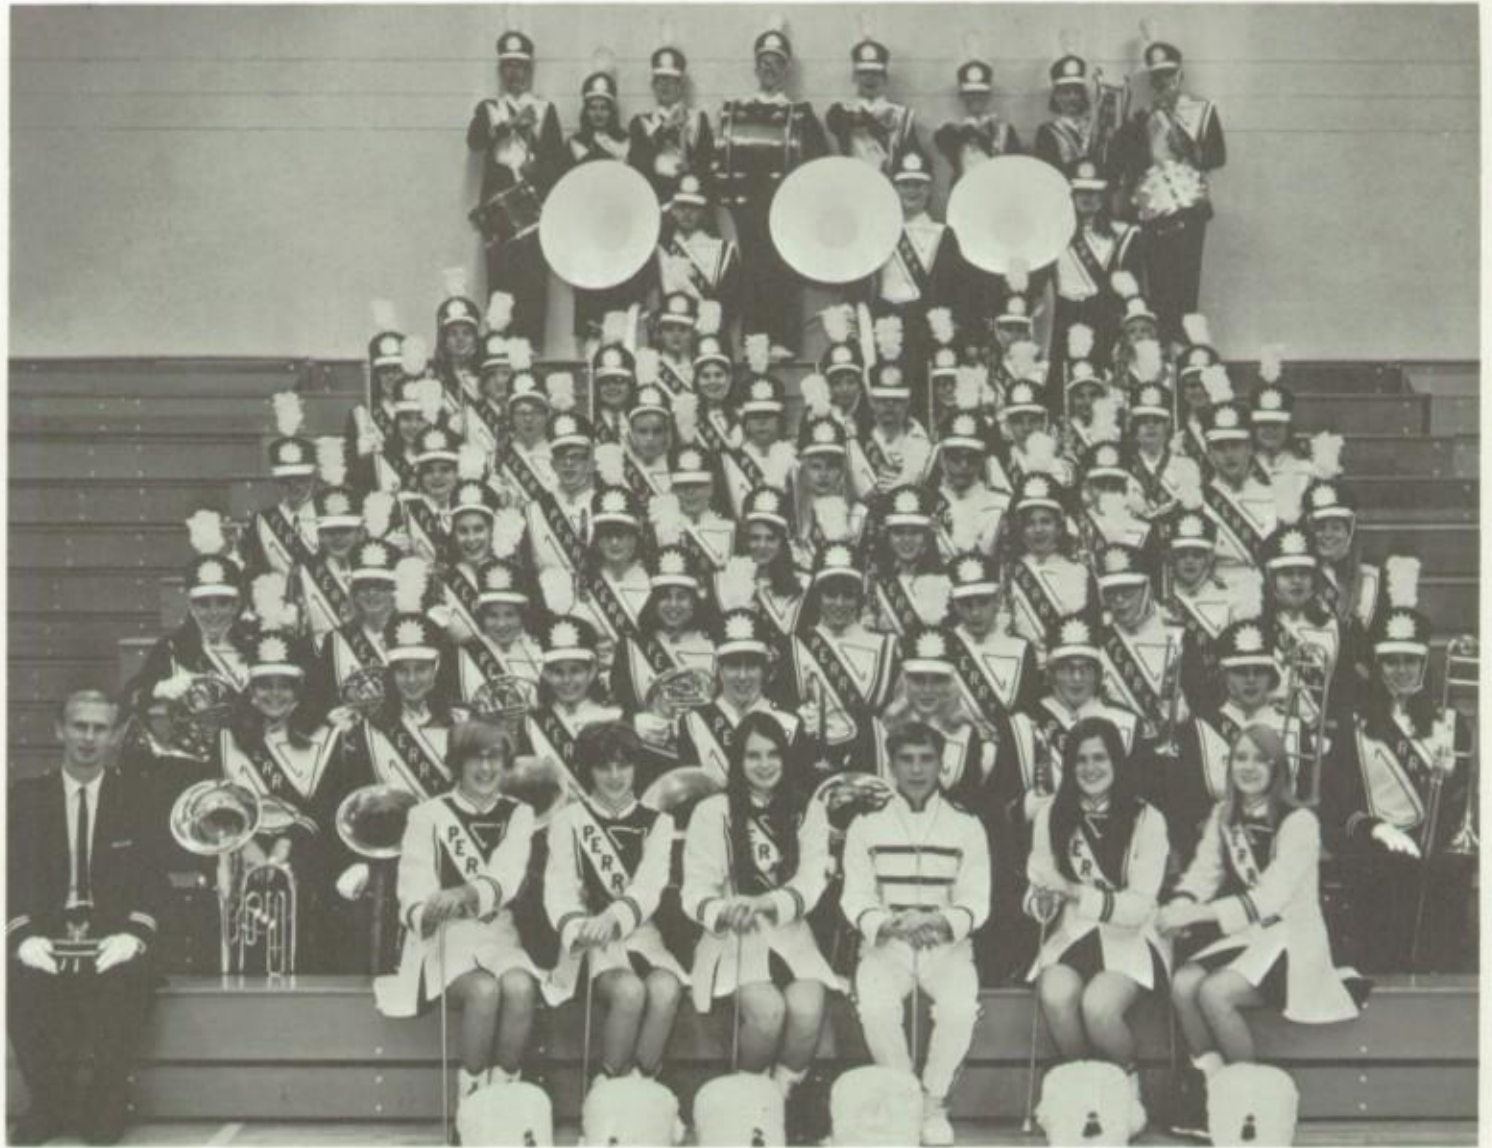

The cross-country team had a little trouble getting its feet off the ground this year, but the boys were determined and full of spirit and improved tremendously in the course of the season. The senior members did an outstanding job, and furthermore, next year's season will also be great because there was a numerous commodity of underclassmen out for the sport. Incidentally, students should realize that it takes a lot of intestinal fortitude, or guts, to run the two miles in any weather. These runners deserve a bigger gallery at next year's meets. How about it?

Cheerleaders Laud

A colorful addition to the cheerleading squad this year was a school mascot in the form of a feminine pirate. (Pirattess?) Also, the cheerleaders were donated a bell that they painted and used at all home football games.

The cheerleaders are responsible for a lot of school spirit, and for this they deserve a lot of credit.

"The Age of Aquarius" was the theme of the homecoming dance whose decorations were engineered by the art club. Among other activities, the art club also put on its regular Art Show in the spring. They worked to prepare the school's entrees in the Scholastic Art and Photography Show, which was held at the May Co.

The art club is the unseen force that makes the posters for all other organizations, comes through at the last minute with program covers, and in general, provides the school with the best of its artistic talent.

The annual has undergone many changes. This year the staff got its own office, the book got color pages, and everybody got a lot more work.

To meet the needs of a changing school, the annual and the staff have both changed. Better design has been considered in making the layouts. More interesting copy has been written.

The annual staff is tremendously proud of its book, and it worked hard to make it. Everybody sold ads and subscriptions too. Photographers captured the moods of the school on film, copywriters thumbed their dictionaries, and the editors worried a lot. We made our deadlines, and before you now is the finished product. It was worth it.

This year's classic—Who's Bob?

New Dimensions

The Periscope came out with several more issues this year than last, and all of them were printed. (Farewell, Mimeographed Periscope!) Pictures were also made a part of the new paper, adding to the new image.

The Student Council sponsored a page, and with it brought the rest of the student body the news, editorials, and the best literary efforts of the school.

The Periscope staff planned to sponsor a literary magazine, and solicited contributions from all classes. More serious articles replaced some of the humor sections, and the Periscope continued to grow with the school.

Future Homemakers

Office Aids

The F.H.A. and the Office Aids are two groups that perform many services to the school. The Aids are the ones who run the errands for the office and occasionally vouch that you really are sick so that you can go home and miss the English test. The F.H.A. occasionally has a cooking catastrophe, but usually they drive the rest of the school mad by cooking up some smells that beat the cafeteria's and make the students drool.

Homecoming 69

Student Council introduced a new format for the organization of the Homecoming dance. It consisted of an all-out effort on the part of all clubs and organizations.

The art club should be especially congratulated for a fine decorating job in the cafeteria. Their theme, "The Age of Aquarius" was well executed in their imaginative and original decorations. Queen Laura was crowned at Memorial Field during half-time ceremonies of the Perry-Kirtland game. She reigned over the traditional homecoming dance held the following evening.

In the twenty year history of Perry's homecomings, there has never been one that was more impressive. Now, the gracious Queen will hold her title and crown for a mere year, when she will present it in another homecoming pageant to another homecoming queen.
